Dear colleague,

I am your predecessor in the European Union Mission in Uganda for training the Somali Army. I am writing this message in order to explain to you how are the facilities where you are going to live and work during your turn of duty.

All the components of the EU Mission are living in a Hotel in the Business area of Kampala. Officers are lodged in single rooms while NCO,s and lower level ranks are living in double room with twin bed. The hotel is close to a sports facility that allows the clients of the hotel free entrance.

The working place is twenty minutes drive from the hotel and consists of several wooden barrack huts, most of them for lodgment of Somali soldiers and three for administration and logistic issues. There are not specific rooms for teaching and you must give your tactical lessons in the training area where there are enough training facilities such as firing ranges.

Yours faithfully

Lt Martinez

Dear John,

I am expecting everything is going well for you in your new post as tactics teacher in the Military Academy.

Comentario [g16]: "expect"

As you already know, I am stationed in Kampala for a six month's tour of duty as Staff Officer in the logistic area (G-4) since the 24th august trying to doing my best in the way you taught me when I was under you command in Strasbourg.

Comentario [g17]: Not needed.

Your country is now taking over the command of the European Union mission in Kampala and among the new logistics guys is Captain Smith who is going to work in my same area. Talking with him about our respective military lives we discovered we had something in common: we had served under your command.

Comentario [g22]: "the same area as me"

Comentario [g23]: "have both served"

I am not going to tell you what exactly we said about your way of leadership but don't worry, it wasn't so bad.

Comentario [g24]: "what we said about your leadership skills, but don't worry, nothing bad was said."

Hope to hear from you soon.

Lt Martinez.

Dear Harry,

I wish you had a good time at home. Here, in Kampala, we have been very busy with the Spanish Ambassador visit to the HQ of the European Union mission in Kampala.

Comentario [g25]: "hope"

Comentario [g26]: Genitive required.

The arrangements for the visit have been very demanding. We prepared several show slides and an exhibition of the Somali units we are training here but the funny thing was that the ambassador changed his plans and spent all the time chatting with one of his assistants about some internal issues of the Spanish Foreign Office.

Comentario [g27]: "slide shows"

Comentario [g28]: "at"

It was not so funny was to explain the Somali soldiers why they have spent so many hours in rehearsals for nothing.

Comentario [g29]: Incorrect.
Suggestion: "It was not that funny having to explain to our Somali soldiers why they had rehearsed so hard for nothing."

Warm regards

Comentario [g30]: Comma required.

Lt Martinez
