

MIDDLE EAST UPRISING

Upon reading this title, I am totally sure that a large number of ideas will come rushing into anybody's mind. This subject is usually read in the media, due to its significant importance. Perhaps, the radical Muslim world and the last clashes in the Middle East are the main worry for almost everybody, these days.

Many young people from those countries reject their dictatorships, which have been able to rule almost everything, without any kind of restrictions for a long time. Inside a global world, the current situation is the result of struggling for freedom. In addition, it is easier for anybody to have access to information. Besides, the power of gathering people has been increased thanks to new technologies like network, for instance. Therefore, there have been some examples, like Libya or Syria, where people are fighting against their former dictators and their regimes. As most everybody knows, they are reaching their goal.

Another important point is that developed countries are supporting these clashes, although they were in favour of dictators like Gadafi, since they needed their oil and their investments. Moreover, Europe needs a stable and calm situation in the north of Africa for its own interest.

If these uprising was capable of achieving their goals, several significant changes regarding social, economic and military aspects would immediately take place. Moreover, it would mean a new revolution, these countries would become similar to Europe, and their inhabitants would increase their individual rights and improve their life-style. With regard to security, some threats would appear because it seems to be that some of the new governments are advocate of radical Muslim movements. Additionally, it had not better be forgotten that many of these countries are the biggest producers of oil; that is the reason why these new emerge governments would have great power. *

Finally, I am totally of the opinion that these events will have significant consequences and severe changes in the near future.

Comment: Mejor "in", porque "inside" se refiere más propiamente al interior de algo cerrado.

Comment: Mejor "everybody" en este contexto.

Comment: Mejor "to gather", porque con un verbo es más habitual la estructura "the power to + verbo"

Comment: "social networks", se supone.

Comment: "most people know", porque no funciona la combinación "most everybody"

Comment: O "this uprising" o "these uprisings", es decir, hay que mantener la concordancia singular o plural.

Comment: Más formal decir "were" también para el singular en este tipo de estructuras condicionales.

Comment: Orden de palabras en esta estructura especial: "it had better not be"

Comment: "emerging", adjetivo.
